

ANTHROPOLOGICAL RESEARCHES AND STUDIES

Authors Guidelines

OVERVIEW

As a result of its commitment to the aim of promoting the broadest dissemination of scientific information to the largest audience, the ARS Journal opted for an Open Access policy, allowing interested readers to easily and freely access the latest anthropological research findings and also giving the authors the opportunity to raise their visibility by multiplying the standard distribution channels. Not only that the journal is indexed in a multitude of free access bibliographic databases, but the authors themselves are free to post a copy of their final papers on their personal website or institutional repository.

Please read carefully the Authors Guidelines before submitting.

Introduction

Starting with 2026, the journal has changed the rules for in-text citations and references. The 7th edition of the American Psychological Association style (APA 7th) will be used.

American Psychological Association Style and Grammar Guidelines

APA Style 7th edition

Starting with 2016, Anthropological Researches and Studies Journal publishes only articles written in English.

Paper Elements

Title

The title should be eloquent illustrating the content of manuscript, 10-20 words and should not contain abbreviations, also it should be written with CAPITAL LETTERS.

Author name

Specify the complete list of authors. Each author should be registered with his/her birth or baptismal name, followed by the FAMILY NAME (often referred to as a surname or last name). On First Name (Baptism Name, Given at Birth) and Middle Name Capitalize Each Word and on FAMILY NAME (SURNAME) WRITE IN CAPITAL LETTERS (UPPERCASE).

Author affiliation

Institutional affiliation (university/college/ hospital) & section (department / discipline) must be provided for each author.

For institutional membership and for other citations use this format of quotation marks "...". For example: "Francisc I. Rainer" Anthropology Institute of the Romanian Academy

If multiple authors share the same institutional affiliation, the institution should be listed only once. Authors sharing this affiliation should be grouped together, with a number in brackets to indicate the shared affiliation. Please see the general framework for the articles where you have an example.

Contact person

Contact person information (email and phone) is mandatory.

After the email address each author and co-author must specify the ORCID Code.

Abstract and format

One row space will be left after each section: the title, all the authors' names, all institutional affiliations, the correspondence address and the abstract.

The abstract, the article should not include vague or subjective sentences such as "in my paper I will argue that...", or "we/our team selected for this work...". The author is encouraged to use more impersonal phrases such as “this study argues that...”, or “were selected for this work...”.

Abstract

All articles should begin with a 250-word abstract in English. Please comply with international norms for abstracts following the model.

Objectives. (Main elements of the study stages should be extracted and presented in a more concentrated manner).

Material and methods. (Clear and concise).

Results. (The relevant ones, expressed numerically and statistically evaluated where possible).

Conclusions. (Most important findings, any recommendations).

Keywords: Between 3 and 5 keywords, separated by commas and finalized by point, must be provided at the end of abstract for the purpose of indexing. For bio-medical anthropology INDEX Medicus and MEDLINE are recommended for compliance.

Do not use lines in the abstract. One row space will be left before and after the abstract. One row space will be left before and after the keywords.

Abbreviations

Abbreviations are not admitted in the title and are preferable to be avoided in abstracts. Each abbreviation is to be first introduced between brackets next to the phrase subject to abbreviation ARS only admits for standard abbreviations (see APA guide to abbreviations). Recommended measurement units are those of the International System.

Example of author information in multiple authorship articles:

Editorial recommendations

I. Original Articles

Content should be structured in the following sections:

Introduction

Survey of literature in the field, research goals, findings.

Material and methods

Accurate verifiable data; techniques and instruments, assessment criteria.

Results

Submit concise data (including tabular forms or figures). Where appropriate, results may be validated by appropriate statistical processing. For statistical analysis, tests used in data evaluating data are to be explicitly mentioned (Chi-square, t-test, ANOVA, correlation, regression, etc.). When data are presented in tabular form, indicate the statistical test by a footnote for each table separately.

For the presentation of statistical data, APA style will be used - <https://about.illinoisstate.edu/jhkahn/apastats/>

Discussions

Results interpretation, connecting findings to work on similar subjects in mainstream publications.

Conclusions

Emphasis on contribution to knowledge in the area involved.

Acknowledgements

(If appropriated) name institutions, organizations or individuals having favorably influenced completion of research project.

References

II. Reviews and updates

ARS publishes reviews and state of the art updates on topics of interest.

Abstracts and text of such contributions shall be structured following the same indications as specified above with respect to the original articles.

III. Case reports

Content and structure of case reports ought to include the following sections:

Abstract

Introduction

Methodology

Case presentation

Discussion, conclusion

References

Recommended sizes for articles and references

I. Original Articles

Article size including abstract, text, tables, figures as well as 20 to 40 bibliographic references: 5000-8000 words.

II. Reviews and updates

Update article size including abstract, text, tables, figures and 30 to 50 bibliographic references: 8000-10000 words.

III. Case reports

Case reports size including abstract, text, tables, figures and 15 to 30 bibliographic references: 3000-5000 words.

IV. Reviews: 500-600 words.

References

For references, authors should use the American Psychological Association (APA) style, 7th edition (<https://apastyle.apa.org/style-grammar-guidelines>)

<https://www.isu.edu/media/libraries/student-success/tutoring/handouts-writing/using-sources/APA7-Style.pdf>

When quoting directly, always provide the author, year, and page number of the quotation (in both parenthetical and narrative in-text citations).

Follow these guidelines when providing a page number:

- For a single page, use the abbreviation “p.” (e.g., p. 25, p. S41, p. e221).
- For multiple pages, use the abbreviation “pp.” and separate the page range with an en dash (e.g., pp. 34–36).
- If pages are discontinuous, use a comma between the page numbers (e.g., pp. 67, 72).

Figures, images, tables

Please note that maximum 8 tables are admitted.

Figures, illustrations and tables will be included in the article (document). The article cites figures, images, tables numbered with Arabic numerals. Figures, illustrations will be submitted in JPG format (minimum 300 dpi).

Example:

Table 1

Differences in Cultural Carriers to Screening between the Asian and the Caucasian Women

You can see about the tables here:

<https://apastyle.apa.org/style-grammar-guidelines/tables-figures/tables>

<https://apastyle.apa.org/style-grammar-guidelines/tables-figures/sample-tables>

More information is available on pages 195–249 of Chapter 7 of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, seventh edition.

Figure 1

You can see about the figures here:

<https://apastyle.apa.org/style-grammar-guidelines/tables-figures/figures>

<https://apastyle.apa.org/style-grammar-guidelines/tables-figures/sample-figures>

The principles of figure construction are described on pp. 225 of the seventh edition of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association.

Articles will be sent in Microsoft Word 2000 or later, Times New Roman font size 12. Use the single-line spacing. Do not use the free row between the paragraphs of the text. Only before and after each chapter, subchapters a row will be left free.

The text following chapters, subchapters will start at a distance of 1.5 cm. The first line of each paragraph should be indented (set in from the left margin) by 1.5 centimetres.

Pages should be numbered at the right bottom corner.

Footnotes will not be used.

Writing style

ARS publishes articles written in English. ARS recommends spelling rules set forth in International Webster's Dictionary.

The author(s) should use a decent academic language. Presentation of facts and opinions should be kept to an impersonal speech. The editors will not accept unsupported criticism or defamation against other texts or authors. A derogatory is strongly discouraged.

Authors are fully responsible for the quality of the English language, editing of the text, citations, and references. We recommend the appeal to a professional translation service, for example Editage, a division of Cactus Communications, <https://www.editage.com/services/english-editing>, or American Manuscript Editors, www.americanmanuscripteditors.com

Please note that the use of a language editing service is neither a requirement for publication in Anthropological Researches and Studies, nor does it imply or guarantee that the article will be selected for peer review or accepted.

Avoiding bias

Please note the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 7th edition offers guidelines for Bias-Free Language and emphasizes use of bias-free language to promote inclusivity, fairness, and precision in academic writing. Also, writers are encouraged to review their work for bias, just as they check for spelling, grammar, and wordiness.

The main strategies to avoid bias are to use appropriate levels of specificity, be sensitive to labels, and reduce bias across topics such as age, disability, gender, racial and ethnic identity, sexual orientation, and socioeconomic status.

The strategies are described on pages 132–149 of Chapter 5 of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, seventh edition and most of them can be consulted in the American Psychological Association Style and Grammar Guidelines.

Plagiarism

The articles submitted for publication will be checked for any violation of the copyright law and editors could consider taking corrective actions against it, varying from asking the authors to re-write overlapping sections to the rejection of the manuscript. Text recycling is an acceptable practice only in a few situations – for example, in the methods section of the work, where there are limited ways to describe the used method(s). Sufficient new material has to be provided in the article to justify its publication and the original publication must be referenced in the subsequent publication. Since detection of previous dissemination of the material is not always possible, authors are fully responsible for the originality of content submitted for publication.

Any original material submitted to Anthropological Researches and Studies journal for publication must be accompanied by a filled and signed Copyright Form (Copyright Form Download PDF). Manuscripts that fail to meet this requirement will not be taken into consideration.

Manuscripts that fail to meet this requirement will not be taken into consideration.

Submission for publication and publication

Manuscripts submitted for publication are to be complete and correct. Authors are responsible for re-checking manuscripts every time they are returned for further editing. Interest of the topic, quality of approach, novelty of approach, date of receipt may influence publishing priority in ARS.

Articles previously published in other journals or in another language are not accepted for publication in ARS.

Failure to comply with editorial recommendations may result in delays in publication or rejection.

Provide the contact details (including email addresses) of four potential peer reviewers for your manuscript. At least one of potential peer reviewers must be from another country than the first author of the paper. The reviewers should be experts in their field, able to provide an objective assessment of the manuscript. The suggested peer reviewers should not have published with any of the authors of the manuscript within the past two years. They should not be current collaborators or members of the same research institution. The suggested reviewers will be considered alongside potential reviewers recommended by the Editorial team.

Submission checklist

1	1 Manuscript is in English (International Webster's Dictionary spelling).
2	Title is 10-20 words, in CAPITAL LETTERS, with no abbreviations.
3	Author names: First and Middle Name Capitalized, FAMILY NAME in CAPITAL LETTERS.
4	Affiliations are grouped by shared institutions with bracketed numbers. Contact information (email and phone) for corresponding author is included.
5	Abstract (250 words) includes Objectives, Methods, Results, and Conclusions.
6	Keywords (3-5) are provided, separated by commas, ending with a period. Abstract avoids subjective phrases and unnecessary abbreviations.
7	Results include statistical validation (tests specified, APA style for tables/figures).
